

The LaManna family needs your help

Benefit at The Centro Grille in Robbinsville, Monday, January 14 at 6 p.m.

January's "Women With a Purpose" recipient is Tracey LaManna of Robbinsville. Tracey is a young wife and mother in her early 30s. She and her husband have two little girls (ages 2 and 1). While Tracey was pregnant with her second daughter she was diagnosed with late stage lung cancer. Immediately following the birth of her daughter Tracey started chemo and radiation. Tracey can no longer work and she and her husband were forced to sell their home and move in with her husband's parents. Recently, after another scan, five lesions were located on her brain. Tracey is now going through very intensive chemo and radiation. Her husband and family take her back and forth from University of Pennsylvania to Sloan Kettering in New York City, all while trying to work and care for two very young children. Tracey's prognosis is extremely serious. As you would imagine, the LaManna family is greatly struggling emotionally with this situation, and with the tremendous financial expenses associated with Tracey's care the family appreciates any care and support we can offer. So PLEASE come out to the Centro Grill, located at 2360
